Wind show is a breeze for Italians

Bath Chronicle Follow

Thursday, September 22, 2011

Wind, a mesmerising new theatre show about the whistling wind, will be performed by Italian Theatre Company, La Società della Civetta, at the egg theatre from this Saturday to Tuesday.

Specially created for audiences aged between two and six, this performance visits the egg as part of the Bath Festival of Children's Literature.

On stage, behind two windows, a man and a woman look out at the world. Outside the wind blows, stirs, whispers; it is a life force, full of energy and vitality.

As the wind blows ever stronger, the windows open and close revealing the world beyond.

Using humour, poetry and an extraordinary sound design, this imaginative performance takes the audience on a journey through unexpected landscapes and situations. As the pace quickens and slows to the rhythm of the wind, the force of nature brings about change as it rushes by.

The acclaimed Italian theatre company, La Società della Civetta makes a welcome return to Bath with their playful new show following their visit last year to perform Droplets.

Tickets cost £7 and £5.50. To book call 01225 823409 or 01225 448844.

Audience members who would like to explore this performance further can attend a 'wind' inspired workshop using art, collage and story-telling at the Holburne Museum's Gardner's Lodge on Saturday from 1pm to 2.30pm. The workshop is available for children aged four to six years. Tickets cost £5.
